

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26TH, 2013

6—7:30 PM

Organic Gardening

“What Is It”

Topics discuss soil tests and how to amend organically, the need for balanced minerals in the soil and how a good soil can lessen the need of chemicals for garden pests and diseases.

Definition of Organic Gardening

- What is it?
- What it is not?

Reasons for having healthy soil to grow the maximum healthy plant

- Sustainable and healthy model of gardening
- Decrease need to use pesticides

Importance of Understanding the Cation Exchange

- Science of soil nutrients
- How to create the ideal soil

The Three Legged Stool

- Organic life
- Mineral elements
- Energy

Location: Tuten Park Education

Contact:

golden.tradewell@cityoflc.us
for registration

Liz Brown from Pure Earth Botanicals is a certified organic gardener. She has been growing organically for 30 years. Her passions are antique roses, perennials, herbs and flowers.